Thanks Steve. I'll take a look and start incorporating/addressing. On the "Mega Merge" version, you have a note on pg 19 (General Pesticides) that you stopped reviewing there and skipped to Forestry. It doesn't appear that you made any comments on pgs. 19-26. Do you still need to review those sections or were those sections fine?

All (but mostly Allison and, I think, Alan),

Attached are two documents. First, a mark up with many of my edits/questions/comments on the draft comment-response document. I put these on top of a “mega merge” of lots of peoples’ comments. Allison already has (or should have) the first 30 or so pages (from a last week transmission).

Ex. 5 - Attorney Client

Ex. 5 - Attorney Client

The reason I did the second document separately was because, in the summarizing and paraphrasing of comments for the “rolled up” comment-response document, I could not always find where the comment was rolled into a summary, and therefore, was not able to identify the response.

I recognize that the hour is getting late (very late) and I don’t know what plans Allison has for zipping up the comment response document. IT MAY BE that a separate (shorter) supplemental comment-response document on Ex. 5 - Attorney Client would be easier to prepare than folding in the comments and responses to the bigger document. IT MAY BE ALTERNATIVELY just as easy to highlight/insert the specific comment into the larger document, and to insert the response there as well.

Ex. 5 - Attorney Client

If, in reviewing the second document, you note that we DID respond to this comment or that comment (or all the comments), then please just know that it was not obvious to me where to look for that response ... so it may be easy to just add a few more words here and there to make it easier to find the responses.

SOME of these may require original drafting. For MANY of the comments I flagged (including the page number), I TRIED to suggest something that MIGHT be responsive, but you all would know better than I how to respond.

If there is something in here that looks like it requires a legal response, then please punt each such comment back.

Thanks and have a nice break,

Steve
